Customer Policy Handbook

Document Code: SB-POL-2026-v1
Effective Date: January 1, 2026
Classification: Customer Support Reference — Not for External Distribution
Prepared by: SkyBridge Customer Experience & Policy Team

This handbook is a fictional airline policy reference authored for an AI customer support agent capstone project. It defines the five policy areas the automated support agent is authorized to answer from, and is the canonical source of truth for retrieval-augmented generation (RAG) grounding in that system.

SB-POL-001

Flight Delay Compensation

SkyBridge Airlines provides compensation for delays that are within the airline's control (for example, crew scheduling issues, aircraft maintenance, or operational decisions). SkyBridge does not provide cash compensation for delays caused by extraordinary circumstances outside its control, including severe weather, air traffic control restrictions, security incidents, or strikes by third parties.

Compensation tiers for controllable delays, based on length of delay at final destination:

- 2 to under 4 hours: a travel voucher worth 25% of the one-way fare for the delayed segment.
- 4 to under 6 hours: a travel voucher worth 50% of the one-way fare for the delayed segment, plus a meal voucher if the delay spans a standard mealtime.
- 6 hours or more: a travel voucher worth 100% of the one-way fare for the delayed segment, plus a meal voucher, and hotel accommodation if the delay results in an overnight stay.

To request compensation, the customer must submit a claim through the SkyBridge website within 30 days of the delayed flight, referencing their booking reference (PNR). Claims are typically processed within 10 business days.

Seat Changes and Exit Row Eligibility

Customers may request a seat change through the SkyBridge website, mobile app, or by contacting customer support, subject to seat availability. Standard seat changes are free for Elite-tier loyalty members and incur a fee for all other fare classes, with the fee varying by route and seat type (standard, preferred, or extra-legroom).

Exit row seats have additional eligibility requirements, in line with aviation safety regulations:

- Passenger must be at least 15 years old.
- Passenger must be able to perform the functions described on the safety briefing card (including operating the emergency exit) without assistance.
- Passenger must not be traveling with an infant or young child seated in the same row.
- Passenger must be willing and able to assist the crew in an emergency evacuation if asked.

Exit row eligibility is confirmed at check-in or at the gate; a seat change request to an exit row is not guaranteed until eligibility is confirmed by airline staff.

Cancellations and Refunds

Refund eligibility depends on the fare type purchased at the time of booking:

- Flex fares: fully refundable to the original payment method at any time before departure, with no cancellation fee.
- Standard fares: refundable minus a cancellation fee of $75 per passenger per segment, if cancelled at least 24 hours before scheduled departure.
- Basic (lowest) fares: non-refundable. The ticket value, minus a $75 change fee, may be applied as a credit toward a future SkyBridge flight, valid for 12 months from the original booking date.

All cancellations must be submitted through the SkyBridge website, app, or customer support. SkyBridge customer support agents can explain this policy and confirm which fare type applies to a given booking, but cannot execute the cancellation or refund directly on behalf of a customer through the chat channel; those actions must be completed by the customer through the website/app self-service flow or by a live phone/counter agent with account verification.

SB-POL-004

Damaged, Delayed, or Lost Baggage

Baggage damage or loss must be reported to SkyBridge baggage services before leaving the airport, or within 7 days of arrival for damage discovered later, and within 21 days for a bag that never arrived. Reports require the baggage claim tag number and are filed via a Property Irregularity Report (PIR).

Compensation for verified baggage damage or loss is calculated based on the depreciated value of the contents and is subject to a maximum liability limit per passenger as set by applicable aviation regulation (this limit varies by route and is confirmed at the time of claim). SkyBridge does not cover cash, jewelry, electronics over a certain value, or fragile items packed in checked baggage unless a special declaration was made at check-in.

Because baggage claims require physical inspection, documentation review, and case-by-case liability assessment, these cases are always handled by a human baggage claims specialist and are not resolved through the automated support channel.

SB-POL-005

Billing and Payment Disputes

Billing discrepancies — including duplicate charges, incorrect fare amounts, unauthorized charges, or failed refunds that were never received — are handled by SkyBridge's Billing Resolutions team, not through the automated support channel. This is because billing disputes often require verification against internal payment processor records, potential fraud review, and access to secure payment account details that the support agent does not have.

Customers should still be given clear next steps: billing disputes are escalated to a human agent, who will typically respond within 2 business days, and customers do not need to take any further action on their end beyond confirming their contact details.

Scope Note — Topics Not Covered

This handbook covers the five policy areas above only. It does not cover topics such as loyalty program tier benefits, pet travel, unaccompanied minor procedures, group bookings, or international visa/documentation requirements. If a customer asks about a topic outside this handbook, the correct behavior for the support agent is to state clearly that the information is not available in the current policy knowledge base, rather than guessing or improvising an answer.
